The Whys and Wherefores of Bumblebee Care

CEG invites you to a talk by Claire Piper.
Claire spent the whole of her working life as a music teacher, but she always had a deep interest in the natural world. Once she was semi-retired she studied for both a Natural Sciences degree (Open University) and a Masters in Ecology (Edinburgh University), in order to understand environmental issues better. In order to put her learning to practical use, she joined the Bumblebee Conservation Trust as a volunteer and has given quite a number of talks on their behalf in the local area. She is a keen nature-friendly gardener and an allotmenteer.
The talk will cover:
different kinds of wild bee; why diversity in our bees is important; the decline of bumblebees; why we need to understand the lifecycle of bumblebees; how we can help them.
